Excerpt: . . . though he has written upon every science excepting Law, yet he was never regularly taught any one. He seems indeed to be ignorant of all the rules which have been formd for the improvement of the. sciences; among his productions are four plays, which he highly values. One of them, entitled The artful mother ganders, or the real humours of a rookery, he describes as the deepest tragedy that ever was written. He is indeed in his own opinion an universal genius, and has made many improvements and discoveries in diverse arts and sciences. I attended this morning in the gallery of the House of Representatives, to hear the debates. They were upon the judiciary bill. Mr. Gerry, Mr. Jackson, Mr. Burke, Mr. Stone, Mr. Lee, Mr. Maddison and Mr. Benson all took a part in this debate. But I confess I did not perceive any extraordinary powers of oratory displayed by any of these gentlemen. The subject had been already so much discussed that little could be said of further importance. The eloquence had all been exhausted, but the spirit of contention still remained. 18th. I attended again this day in the galleries of the House. The principal debate was upon the salaries of the Judges. The subject was not very interesting; but, like almost every other subject, exhibited the difficulty of adjusting the opposing sentiments which direct the conduct of men living in different climates and used to very different modes of...
