Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Moberly Pulpit: A Book of Sermons There is no apology offered for the appearance of another book, for the addition of another little volume to the Christian Literature of the nineteenth century. It is the duty of Christians of every age to study the Scriptures. They are commanded to have the Scriptures dwelling in them richly. Obedience to this apostolic requirement necessitates careful study of the Bible. Full and entire compliance with Paul s precept can only be had by close, even critical study of the words of Christ, the apostles, and the prophets. Any book that will aid its readers in the accurate understanding of the divine writings, or that will strengthen their faith in Christ, in his promises and in his threatenings, has a right to appear and to claim a share of the attention of the reading public. Believing that this little volume will do these things for those who shall give it a candid and careful reading, the author modestly offers it to all classes of readers. He confidently looks for some degree of appreciation from those who read carefully, think logically, and dig beneath the surface. Believing that it is a good thing to exalt Christ in the hearts of the people, the first two sermons are devoted to an effort to reach a strictly Scriptural development of the Divine Nature of Christ, and the next two to a like development of his Human Nature. The fifth and sixth sermons teach of Christ as the Mediator between God and man, and the seventh is devoted to a careful presentation of Christ as our great High Priest. These seven discourses...
