It is therefore possible that in time we may here have to face a situation 20 where we should be asked by prominent European powers to undertake the collection of claims as we once did in San Domingo. That we should be compelled so to act, however, by reason of our action in San Domingo is not at all evident. 25 In the first place, in order to make a precedent the general features of the present situation must be repeated. There must be a large defaulted debt; all efforts toward collection must have failed; agreements such as France and Belgium tried in San Domingo must have been broken; 30 even forcible means of collection should have been tried 1 New York Evening Post, February 27, 1905. first, as England and Germany tried them in Venezuela in 1903, i.e. by bombardment...
